Parents seek protection for Glen Road School

by Elaine DePasquale

A last-ditch effort to secure funds for increased security at the Glen Road School without calling a second special town meeting will be made Wednesday night when that school's Parent Advisory Committee (PAC) presents an appeal to the Wilmington Finance Committee.

A group of nearly 50 determined area residents converged on the selectmen's meeting Tuesday night with a petition signed by 300 voters. The petition requested security personnel and an alarm system for the embattled Glen Road School and promised the calling of a special town meeting if action were not taken within 30 days.

The residents' action came on the heels of the most recent instances of vandalism at the school, the breaking of 22 windows on Friday, May 16, and Sunday, May 18.

Prior to that, according to Superintendent of Schools Walter Pierce, vandalism at the school had dramatically decreased following the most violent incident, a disastrous fire of suspicious origin which closed the school for nearly five months of the 1978-79 school year.

Since the fire, the PAC has worked hard to try to turn around the school's "vandalized" image and had largely succeeded until the window breaking incidents occurred. Now they are angry and fearful that there may be some backsliding despite their hard work.

"By coming here tonight, we hope to gain something positive and concrete," Glen Road School Principal Richard Gorham told the selectmen. "Up to now we have spent lots of time in conversation, but little time in action."

Present at the meeting along with the Glen Road parents were Pierce and five members of the School Committee. Also present was Police Chief Bobby Stewart, who told the selectmen his department had received the names of four youths believed to be involved in the window breaking and had elicited a confession from one of them.

The four, he said, were between the ages of 13 and 16 and all were neighborhood residents.

"They are your neighbors' kids. That is the unfortunate part of it," he said. "Some of your neighbors are not as concerned as you are. They are not concerned where their 13-year-old kid is on Friday night."

According to Stewart, 150 youths have been prosecuted on liquor-related violations in the past six weeks. About 20 percent of these, he said, were on school property.

Stewart pointed out that vandalism and liquor violations did not occur only at the Glen Road School, but that was little consolation to area residents.

"We have suffered quite a bit. No other buildings have been set on fire and have had to have children removed for half a year," said Gorham. "This has greatly affected the ability of some of these children to learn."

The final factor in the Glen Road equation, however, is money.

Where will it come from to finance the needed security?

It was selectman Aldo Cairra who advanced the idea to approach the finance committee.

"We still have $5,000 or $6,000 in the contingency fund," he said, "why not go to the finance committee and ask for that money for a security person and an alarm system?"

The alternative, a special town meeting, was estimated by Chairman

Robert Cain to cost the voters at least $1,200 before any articles are even voted upon.

Pierce had some good news for the selectmen, however. A recent vote by the state board of education, he said, would result in the return of $13,432.85 to the town of Wilmington as reimbursement for money spent removing asbestos at the Glen Road School.

While the money can not be used without a town meeting appropriation, it could at least soften the blow to the taxpayer.

Other methods for dealing with the vandalism of public property were also mentioned at the Tuesday night meeting. These included a suggestion by School Committee Member Linda McMenimen that the board of selectmen look into the possibility of instituting "flexibility" into custodial working hours, so that school buildings would have personnel on duty at night "even if it means bargaining for it."

Another suggestion, and one which has already reached the planning stage, is the organizing of a volunteer, auxiliary police force.

Stewart told the selectmen last night that he had a "package" ready to present to Town Manager Sterling Morris which would set up such a force under the direction of Civil Defense and which would cost the town nothing more than the use of an old police cruiser and a two-way radio. The volunteers, according to School Committeeman John Brooks, could be the "eyes and ears of the police department."

Dear Sirs

May 23,

Were having a lot of vandalism. Could you help stop this. I thought we could put up signs saying no littering, don't touch, and most of all no fires. Because last year we had a very bad fire. We all had to squeeze in a very little hall. I hope you can help.

Very truly
yours, Taunia
Soderquist

Students at the Glen Road School have written several letters to the Wilmington Selectmen, asking for help in curbing vandalism at the school. This one was written by Taunia Soderquist, a student in Mrs. Maxey's second grade class.

Seven convicted on drug charges; some drugs were counterfeit

Seven of the 13 persons who were arrested last March, at Compugraphic in Wilmington and in North Reading have been convicted in court. The remaining six have their cases pending. All the cases were drug related. The trials were held in the Superior Court, in Cambridge.

Four of the convictions were for sale of counterfeit drugs. Wilmington Chief of Police Bobby Stewart regards this as seriously as he does the sale of drugs, in that, in either case a crime is being committed.

The counterfeit drugs, made up of aspirin and other substances were sold as Class B drugs. Class B is the title given to certain prescription drugs, such as codeine, LSD, amphetamines and barbiturates.

The drugs were analyzed in a laboratory for the Wilmington police. Neil P. Sheehan, 761 Ocean Boulevard, Hampton, N.H. was convicted on three counts of selling counterfeit drugs. He was also convicted on three counts of selling Class E narcotics, and of conspiracy to violate the narcotic laws. Sheehan was sentenced to serve one year in the House of Correction.

Robert L. Carter of 2 Columbus

Terrace, Dorchester and Paul G. Perry Jr., of 1 Allenden Circle, Derry, N.H. were convicted of two counts of selling counterfeit Class B narcotics.

Perry was also charged with the sale of Class E narcotics, and of conspiracy to violate the narcotic laws.

Both men were sentenced to one year in the House of Correction, with actual service to be 30 days, and a two year probation. They were also each fined $500.

Robert B. Bentham, 19 of 15 Laurie Drive, Tewksbury was charged with conspiracy to violate the narcotic laws, the sale of counterfeit Class B narcotics and the sale of Class E narcotics. He was sentenced to two years at the House of Correction, suspended two years, and fined $500.

Mildred Tortorella, 55 Winter Street, Woburn, the only woman in the group, was charged with conspiracy to violate the narcotic laws and the sale of Class B narcotics. She was sentenced to one year in the House of Correction, sentence suspended for two years, and fined $500.

Frank Spates, 459 Prospect Street, Methuen, was charged with conspiracy to violate the narcotic laws, and the sale of Class D narcotics. He was sentenced to serve one year in the House of Correction, sentence suspended two years, and fined $500.

Paul F. Deveau, 24 Thayer Street, Methuen, was charged with conspiracy to sell narcotics, and with two counts of the sale of Class D narcotics. He also was sentenced to one year in the House of Correction, suspended two years, and fined $500.

The arrests were made in the early hours of March 25 by police of Wilmington, North Reading, Revere and the MDC, as the employees left their homes, and as they arrived at work, in the Wilmington and North Reading plants of Compugraphic.

The arrests were the result of a three month investigation by the combined police departments. Undercover police had been working regular shifts in the plants for five weeks.

The police were asked to enter the situation when it was discovered by the firm that narcotics were being sold to employees, within the plant. This is believed to be the first time, in this area of the country, where police have been called in by private industry, under the circumstances.

Adams Street accident

Fifteen-year-old Margaret Ryan of Wilson Street, Wilmington is in the intensive care unit of Mass General Hospital with head injuries, as a result of an accident late Sunday night. Colorful pageant at Shriners' open house

Five hundred Shriners will entertain guests at Aleppo Temple's 4th annual spring open house to be held at the Shriners' Auditorium, off Route 1-93 in Wilmington, Thursday, May 29 at 7:30 p.m. Admission is free and open to the public.

Potentate Harold Larson will host this event for the public to see the Shrine pageantry and entertainment on behalf of the 21 Shriners Hospitals for Crippled and Burned Children including the Burns Institute in Boston.

TV clown Willie Whistle will lead the zany Shrine sawdust joes in their unpredictable stunts. The children will delight in free surprises, balloons, animals, choo-choo train rides, and a circus cannon shot with an unexpected ending.

There will be a Shrine band concert unequalled any place in New England.

Melodic mid-eastern music will be played by the international champion Shrine Oriental Band decked out in glittering Arabic silks that will make an oil-rich sheik envious.

The 88-man Shrine Brass Band under the baton of Bandmaster Walter Smith will play family favorites made popular by the Boston Pops Orchestra.

The bagpipers and drummers of the Shrine Scottish kilty band will put on a show reminiscent of the Queen's Guards touring the U.S.

The spectacular colonial Shrine militia and fife and drum corps is one of the major attractions of the parade pageant. This unit was formed for the American bicentennial and has become one of the country's most authentic colonial groups.

Also in the parade will be the marching platoons of the Aleppo Arab Patrol, stunt cars, the largest beanpot in the world, and the antique replicas of the turn-of-the-century Oldsmobiles.

The Shrine pageant will last an hour and a half. There is ample free parking for over 2000 cars.

They were angry, and not without reason. The 10 or so families who approached the Wilmington selectmen en masse Tuesday night were looking for a way to straighten out what they feel is an intolerable situation.

All are residents of Mill Road. Most had recently purchased expensive new homes from a company which, until its bankruptcy, was operated by Wilmington builders Joseph Langone and Richard Stuart.

Now, the residents charge, they have been left with unfinished landscaping, ruined wells, an unfinished street, drainage problems and a putrid odor from a polluted stream.

And residents who have lived on the road for years, and did not buy their homes from Langone and Stuart are also complaining.

Tuesday night the residents presented the selectmen with a petition asking them not to release any bond money to the builders until the corrections they request are made. To their surprise, however, Town Manager Sterling Morris told them he had been unable to discover any bond posted for the Mill Road construction.

It is possible that the reason a bond may not have been required, he said, is that Mill Road is an existing street, dating back as far as the 17th century. As such it would not come under subdivision law. "It is not a Planning Board road," Morris said.

Still, the residents wanted to know, who will be responsible for fixing their property and their street?

Selectman Dan Ballou said that he had toured the area last week with 30 or 40 Mill Road residents. Selectmen DePasquale and Cain also took the tour.

"I have stacks of complaints," said Ballou. "What I have seen up there to a large extent I could not believe."

According to Selectman Rocco DePasquale, the repairs are the responsibility of the developers, Langone and Stuart. However residents who have tried to reach them have discovered that their former telephones have been disconnected.

"And they are still building in town, that's what bothers me," exclaimed one resident, shaking his head.

Under Massachusetts Law, the town cannot deny a new realty trust the right to do business, simply because a different realty trust owned by the same people went bankrupt, DePasquale said.

"Their names are still Richard Stuart and Joseph Langone no matter what realty trust they go under," countered the resident.

Many of the Mill Road residents would like to have their street accepted by the town, but according to Morris, in its present condition that is an impossibility.

In order to have the street accepted, an estimate of the work needed would have to be drawn up and charged to the residents under the Betterment Act, said former selectman Dan Gillis.

Paul Barrett, who has lived on Mill Road for fourteen years, has a case of insult added to injury. After having his property disturbed by the builders, he was then informed by the tax assessor that his property had been revalued, because the improvements to the road had raised its value. During the selectmen's tour of the area, Barrett pointed out several problems with his property which he said were caused by the builders.

One Mill Road resident, Sally Brennan, told the selectmen that blasting during the construction destroyed her 320 foot artesian well. Only 120 feet of well are now left, she said, and water that for years was pure and clean had now developed a foul taste.

Other residents complained of "atrocious" landscaping and "skunk cabbage" lawns. Russell MacDonald reported a hole eight feet in diameter and four feet deep a mere 20 feet from his home. Wayne Rogers reported a collapsed driveway and Ron King reported that drainage from the street was fouling his well and that surface water running across the street near his home smelled like sewerage.

Morris told the residents that he would contact the two builders and report back to the owners.

He also promised to have the Conservation Commission look at the property to see if there were any violations on conservation land and to have the surface water in the area tested to see what was causing its pollution. Town Sanitarian Ernest Romano, he said, had already determined that it did not contain sewerage.

Other officers elected at the last meeting were Dianne Bartkus, vice president, Pat McGonagle, treasurer-secretary, Mary Masse, membership chairperson, Pat Dennis, social chairperson, Diane Ferguson and Shirley Aumack, publicity chairpersons, Lynn Madaglia, Debbie Solomon and Liz Wheeler, hospitality chairpersons.

The club will close its second year with an ice cream smorgasbord on Tuesday, June 3. Other upcoming activities will include a couples mystery ride in June and a family outing to Benson's Animal Farm.

Further information about the club is available from Diane Ferguson, 658-6837.

Yard Sale

A yard sale for the benefit of Cerebral Palsy of Greater Boston will be held in Wilmington on Saturday, June 7.

The yard sale will be at 22 Congress Street, the home of Mary Hanson. The parent of a cerebral palsied young man, she has been working as a volunteer for the fund. In past years, yard sale was held at CPGB headquarters in Newton. The hall, though, has been converted into classroom space, leaving no place for the fundraiser. Mrs. Hanson volunteered the use of her yard.

Congress Street is off Forest Street, which is off Burlington Avenue at the Burlington town line.

Summer Union Worship services

Summer Union Worship Services for the Protestant Churches of Tewksbury will begin on June 22, at 9:30 a.m. at the United Baptist Church in North Tewksbury at the corner of Andover and Fiske Streets.

Nursery Services for infants and pre-schoolers will be available at the Baptist as well as the United Methodist and Congregational Churches during the entire period.

Preaching will be done by the host pastors and lay leadership will be provided by one of the visiting churches. All Tewksbury residents are cordially welcome.

The schedule for the 11 week period is as follows:

United Baptist Church: Andover and Fiske streets, June 22, June 29, July 6, July 13.

Congregational Church: Main and East streets, July 20, 27, August 3 and 10.

United Methodist Church: Main and South streets, August 17, 24 and 31.

Youngsters on strange bicycles sometimes provide some entertaining moments for spectators awaiting the Memorial Day parade. One such cycle was seen on Church Street on Monday morning with Jimmy Johnson perched high atop the seat. With no chain, he had to rely on his friends to power the bike for him, as well as to stop it. He built the bike along with David Marrinzini.

Jeeps in parade

Jeeps, which became famous in World War II, have come into use as parade vehicles. It seems that convertibles are no longer made, leaving Jeeps as one of the few open-topped vehicles available. Former Selectman Jim Banda, a member of all three veterans' organizations, and Bill Scott of the VFW rode in back. Charlie Malatesta and Jim Shine of the D.A.V. were in front.

Determined flutist

Julie Maninos was determined to play the flute with the Wilmington Junior High Band in the Memorial Day parade, even if she did have a cast on her foot. A wagon provided the answer, and Leslie Turner and Karen Ross provided the pull and the push for the wagon.

editorial

Article 2 could be a stinger

Article 2 of the special town meeting of June 9, for Wilmington, is, to say the least, controversial.

Former selectman A. Daniel Gillis was among those who submitted the article. He made a remark to the effect that he had been told, when Avco came to Wilmington that taxes would be cut. Mr. Gillis evidently finds this to be contrary to his understanding of the facts.

Avco, on Lowell Street, pays the town of Wilmington about $600,000 a year in taxes. It sends no children to the Wilmington schools. It has its own police department, and its own fire department.

If Avco were not in that former hayfield of Herbert Barrows there could be there a housing development, of up to 250 homes. Those homes would be paying taxes of perhaps $300,000 a year, perhaps more.

There would be 200 or maybe more children attending the public schools. There would also be increased costs for fire and police protection.

A school class today costs about $50,000 a year. 200 children would be about eight classes, using today's norm of 25 pupils to a classroom. That could amount to $400,000.

If the town were lucky those homes would be paying their own way, with respect to taxes. Such would not be probable, however.

It is not Avco that costs the town money. It is, instead, that labor costs in the town have gone up. The policemen, the firemen, the town employees, the teachers and other school personnel are paid by the town. Their wages are generally negotiated by the unions involved. Selectmen and others do not have much to say.

The fact is that many town employees, of whatever department, probably earn more than does the average home owner, in Wilmington. Avco cannot be blamed for that.

Taxes are going up. Taxes will continue to go up.

If there were no Avco, - if there were no other industries in Wilmington, - where would the tax rate be?

As things look, in this spring of 1980, it seems that Wilmington will have a $77 tax rate next year. If there were no industrial and commercial buildings, if where those buildings stand were just fields, and without homes, the tax rate would probably be around $122.

That figure is based on the same costs for schools, rubbish collection, public health, council for the aging, etc.

There would be less money needed for the police and fire departments. Cut those appropriations by one half. The tax rate would end up at about $122.

The stark facts are that Wilmington needs to have that sewer constructed. The people need it for their homes. It is needed for the industrial buildings now being constructed on Ballardvale Street.

The owners of industrial buildings will pay betterments, just as do the owners of other buildings in Wilmington.

Compugraphic has a $16.5 building program on Ballardvale Street. That program will stop if there is no sewer.

New construction, conservatively figured, could mean $37,500 for every million dollars in valuation. $16.5 millions could mean about $600,000 in new taxes for the town.

Many new buildings are planned for the area, and some are now under construction. That is the result of Wilmington voting to put in a sewer, a few years ago.

Compugraphic is not alone. It is quite possible that the town could be taking in a couple of million in taxes, before long from Ballardvale Street industry.

To vote in favor of Article 2 could be a real stinger, for any home owner who pays taxes in Wilmington.

Stewart speaks on drugs at school

Six Wilmington high school students have been convicted in Woburn Court, in the past month, on narcotics charges. They entered guilty pleas to a charge of possession of narcotics, in or near the high school. All were Wilmington residents.

In each case they were put on probation, and had to pay court costs.

Police Chief Bobby Stewart does not necessarily regard the guilty pleas as a victory. So he told the members of the Wilmington Rotary Club on May 21.

Ninety-nine percent or more of the students, he says, are unhappy about the fact that marijuana and alcohol are taken into the school by a few students. They feel better when a known trouble maker is removed from their midst.

The marijuana users are very few in numbers. They go outside the school and smoke a "joint," and then return to their classes. They return in a "stoned" condition, and this the other students do not like.

Stewart said that much of the vandalism in Wilmington can be traced to the alcohol and narcotics users.

It has been a difficult year, Stewart said, but he feels that things are looking brighter. Police statistics show a sixty-six percent increase in arrests and prosecutions.

In 1979 the total of fines paid was $29,000. That figure will be equaled next month. This, said Stewart, gives a commitment by the Wilmington police to prosecution in court.

Three juveniles were arrested recently at the Shawsheen School. They had been attempting to sell narcotics to grade school students at that school.

The crowding of the court sometimes makes prosecution to the full difficult, Stewart said. Trials of "pushers" should be on that basis, he said. But to try the cases individually takes up to 45 minutes, and a half a dozen trials can take up the whole day of a court.

If, say, five "pushers" will plead guilty to a charge of possession, a lesser charge, the court will complete their case in about five minutes.

Each will then get a suspended sentence, and have to pay court costs, Stewart said. He does not regard this always as being a satisfactory answer.

The Wilmington police are also planning a program to reduce offenses by riders of trail bikes and snow mobiles, Stewart told the Rotarians. Safety Officer Bob Shelley is planning a program of organizing them into a club, and to restrict their activities to supervised programs, in public areas such as the Town Park.

letter to the editor

Dear Larz:

To everyone who attended the Special Town Meeting, held at Barrows Auditorium in September 1979, to vote on the $600,000 appropriation for the Butters Row Water Treatment Plant. At that meeting we were promised that it would benefit some of the Wilmington unemployed, the people who help pay their share in tax dollars.

In my curiosity, I requested a report as to the people employed at this particular job. In a letter received from the company dated, May 8, 1980. I find there is only one laborer employed and one more to be hired at a later date. Also, one watchman and one security guard. Also how they have set up several accounts with certain merchants in town. I would say this is in their best interest.

It was also stated in the letter how they advertised in the Lowell Sun. Also in the Town Crier in mid-January for construction personnel of which it hasn't been verified to such advertisement.

At that meeting it was stated that Wilmington help would be employed, of course this promise was not binding, plus it wasn't in writing. I question who could enforce such a document. I trust when such contracts are given in the future, it will be given a more serious consideration especially where our tax dollars are to be spent. And who receives the portion of the action?

Student protesters win Common

Victory was sweet last week for the more than 100 students who staged a sit-down demonstration May 20 on Wilmington Common to protest a high school policy barring them from the area.

At the May 21 meeting of the School Committee, a handpicked dozen of the demonstrators were present to hear High School Principal George Eisenberg's announcement that he would re-open the common to student use on a trial basis.

The common had been declared off-limits to high school students since last fall because of a severe littering problem and disregard for traffic safety by students crossing to and from the area.

Eisenberg said he decided to reopen the common after meeting with two student groups. Mutually decided upon by the students and the administration were a set of rules which prohibit students from: use of the gazebo, smoking except in smoking areas, crossing the street in an irresponsible manner and use of the common before homeroom period at 10:20 a.m.

To help deal with future problems that may arise once the common is reopened to students, a new student committee has been formed. It will meet on a regular basis with both the high school administration and with freshman, sophomore, junior and senior class officers.

Eisenberg stressed that the reopening of the common to students "is a privilege and not necessarily a right."

In agreement with him were several members of the School Committee. Chairman Lester White referred to the "tonnage" of litter that cluttered the common last fall and to comments he had received from passers-by about obscene language and gestures from street-crossing students.

"Students are really concerned about getting the common open," said high school senior Steve Verette, however. "They will get their act together and get things cleaned up," he promised.

To Superintendent of Schools Walter Pierce, the litter problem was not as bad as the students' "lackadaisical way of crossing the street in about 30 different directions." It was, he said, "The cutting cars off and ignoring the screech of brakes" that prompted most of the phone calls he received from irritated citizens.

Student School Committee Member Bob Morris reminded Pierce, however, that the students had promised that from now on they would cross at the cross walk in an orderly manner "and not play chicken with the cars."

Among the students present at the School Committee meeting were Verette, Morris, Dorothy Orio, Mark Micalizzi, Mary Winnett, and Blake LeFavour. Outside the Roman House, on a bench beside the common, a homemade sign bore the students' motto: "Fight for the common."

Apple blossom time

Apple blossom season is an especially good time for a visit to the Baldwin Apple Monument on Chestnut Street in Wilmington. The monument marks the site of the original Baldwin apple tree, discovered on the old Butters farm by surveyors working for Col. Laommi Baldwin, who engineered the old Middlesex Canal.

Wendy Evans is forest ranger

Wendy Evans, daughter of Bob and BJ Evans, probably had a grand stand seat, when Mount St. Helens blew up on May 18.

The Evans family moved to New Hampshire a few years ago. Wendy and her sister Sandra now live in Portland, Oregon. Wendy graduated from Wilmington with the class of 1967.

Wendy attended the University of Massachusetts for two years, and then the University of Oregon for three or four, ending up with a Master's degree. Then she entered the US Forest Service and is now a Ranger.

Mount St. Helens, the one that blew up, is about 50 miles northeast of Portland. Mount Hood, an even more majestic mountain, on which Wendy serves, is about 45 miles easterly of Portland, and is in the State of Oregon.

Cong. Shannon's mobil office in Tewksbury Saturday

On Saturday, May 31, Congressman James M. Shannon's mobile office will visit Tewksbury. The mobile office, which will travel the 24 communities of the Fifth Congressional District on a six-week rotation throughout the year, will be parked at DeMoulas, Stadium Plaza, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The mobile office is designed to supplement the services available to 5th District residents through the main office in Lowell at 352 Merrimack St. and the Lawrence Office at 11 Lawrence St. It is one facet of the Shannon Outreach Program, which also includes Open Forum Town Meetings in every community, elderly outreach visits, and special events and conferences.

Regarding the mobil office, Shannon said that, "Staff people will be available to provide assistance as necessary in dealing with governmental agencies." "I hope," the congressman continued, "that citizens will utilize the mobil office, not only when they require such assistance, but also when they wish to discuss issues of concern or to communicate their views."

St. Thomas Parish to conduct census

St. Thomas Parish will conduct a house-to-house parish census next week, the Rev. Thomas Reynolds has announced. It will be accomplished with the aid of many willing parishioners.

Father Reynolds, and his associates Father Francis Daley and Father Victor LaVoie view the census as an opportunity to broaden their understanding of the parish, and further as a means to know and serve the people more effectively.

Each family will be asked to fill out a Family Profile card, and to consider seriously some ways in which a member can be actively involved in the life of the parish. The cards will be placed in envelopes, to be sealed, and they will be picked up by the parish representatives.

Thursday evening, at eight o'clock an organizational meeting is to be held in Villanova Hall. All parishioners involved are being asked to attend. Parishioners who would like to help, and who have not yet signed up are asked to please feel free to attend the meeting.

Wilmington police news

The police blotter for the week shows a continued high level of alcohol related problems, especially among teenagers. There were 18 criminal arrests and seven protective custody detentions. Seventeen disturbances of different types were reported; seven larcenies were reported including cemetery flowers, go-carts and bikes as well as gas and gas service. Malicious damage and vandalism accounted for 21 calls and there were three break and entries.

Suspicious activities of motor vehicles were checked out 10 times and officers responded to three incidents of medical assistance. Three reports of mini-bikes or trail bikes running rampant over private and public property were checked.

Tip of the week: Graduation time and prom time very often ends in tragedy when enthusiasm overcomes common sense. Alcohol and driving do not mix especially after school functions. Perhaps the graduate who turns down the drink at the party is more of a man or woman than those who succumb to temptation.

Arrests

Wednesday morning Officers Chris Nevill and Pat King arrested a Waltham man on Route 93 after being notified by state police of a car headed in the wrong direction in the northbound lane.

Gregory Tiernan, 1 Dexter Ave., Waltham was charged with operating under the influence, endangering and driving on the wrong side of the highway.

Following a high speed chase

Thursday morning, Sgt. Palmer arrested James Thorpe of Aldrich Road and charged him with endangering, failing to stop for a police officer and larceny of a 1980 pickup truck from Old Orchard Beach Maine.

Before the arrest, Thorpe led Sgt. Palmer on a chase from Wilmington Center through North Reading and into Andover center where he finally was finally apprehended.

Officer Mark Jepson arrested Richard C. Kennedy of Mystic Valley Parkway, Medford on Sunday morning and charged him with driving under the influence of alcohol, and operating after revocation of his driver's license. Kennedy was bailed for an appearance in court Tuesday where his case was continued.

Saturday morning Officer Venuti arrested Chris Meeker of Main Street, Woburn and charged him with operating under the influence of alcohol and having no license in his possession.

Several sections of the fence at Wildwood Cemetery were knocked down Saturday morning when Steven Pilcher of Middlesex Avenue struck a utility pole in front of the cemetery on Middlesex Avenue. Pilcher was taken to the Regional Health Center for treatment of injuries. Officers Redding and Jepson investigated.

Sunday morning Officer Venuti arrested Ronald Bastille of Reed Street, Hudson, N.H. for operating under the influence of alcohol, being a minor in possession of alcoholic beverages and other motor vehicle offenses. He was bailed for a Tuesday court appearance, but failed to show up, thereby being defaulted by the court.

The Wilmington Little League benefitted to the tune of $200 in court costs assigned by the court as a result of guilty pleas by several local youths who had been arrested over the weekend on liquor related charges.

Officer Rooney arrested John MacKinnon of Cedar Street, John Peterson of Brand Avenue, Lorens Dunnett of Woburn Street, and Michael Micalizzi of Burnap Street on various liquor violations. Their cases were filed without a finding upon payment of the court costs.

Accidents

Sunday night around 11:30 several teenagers were hospitalized as a result of a one-car accident on Adams Street in which the vehicle, driven by Douglas Bicknell of Belmont Avenue struck a utility pole.

Margaret Ryan of Wilson Street was taken to the Regional Health Center and later transferred to Mass. General Hospital for treatment. Lisa McDonald of Belmont Avenue was also treated at the health center. Nancy Steen of Beacon Street and Judith Bicknell of Belmont Avenue were both taken to Choate Hospital for treatment.

Officer Celata issued a citation to the driver for endangering and speeding.

Following investigation of the accident, Officer Celata issued a citation to the driver for endangering and speeding.

Josephine Smith retires

On April 17 family, co-workers, friends and dignitaries gathered at the Kernwood in Lynnfield to honor Mrs. Josephine Smith of State Street, Wilmington on the occasion of her retirement from the Wilmington Public Schools.

Mrs. Smith has been a school lunch supervisor at the Woburn Street School for the past 14 years, and has held similar jobs at the Wilmington High School and Boutwell School for an additional nine years.

Gifts were presented and accolades heaped upon this gracious lady, but the one repeated most was her dedication and sincere interest in the nutritional welfare of children.

Wilmington senior topics

Party for May seniors

Friday, May 30 there will be a birthday party for all seniors born in May, sponsored by the Council on Aging. These parties are co-sponsored by McDonald's Restaurants. This will be the third party of its kind. The other two were very successful. If this is a senior's special month they are not only invited, but urged to join fellow seniors in celebrating at the Drop-in Center at 1:30 p.m. Friday.

Call early

Those who are thinking of retiring at age 65 should call the Social Security office three months before their 65th birthday, regardless of whether working or retired, to apply for Medicare.

Medigap

Medicare is a subsidized health insurance plan for people 65 and over. Premium is $8.70 per month. Medicare covers 80 percent of in-patient and out-patient services, after the yearly deductibles. To supplement Medicare, all seniors should carry another insurance.

Blue Cross has an excellent Medex policy. Seniors are however, warned against taking out too many overlapping insurance policies. Medex policies will be available until June 1. Those interested in this medigap policy should call Blue Cross before June 1.

Seniors' Mass

St. Dorothy's Church will conduct another senior citizens' mass for all seniors on Tuesday morning, June 10 at 10:30. Refreshments will be served following the service. Sign up at the Drop-in Center.

Community teamwork

The Community Teamwork program in Lowell has advised that money is available for winterization. Those with an income of $4738 for a family of one or $6263 for a family of two, can qualify for up to $560 worth of materials to winterize their homes. When applying at the Drop-in Center take with you a photostat of your income.

New bills

Several bills will be voted upon at the state level very soon. These will effect seniors in some way. It is essential that elderly persons send a letter to their representative in the State House to vote in favor of these bills. Local representatives are Rep. James Miceli and Sen. Robert C. Buell, State House, Boston Mass.

The bills are: H.3835 which is on property taxes, this will drop the exemption on real estate taxes from 70-years to 67 years then to 65, giving tax relief to thousands. The Bill will also increase the income eligibility requirements from $6000 to $8000 for one and $7000 to $9000 for a couple.

H.2939 allows the floating of $100,000,000 in bonds for the construction of additional elderly housing.

S.635 would prevent the problem of home care clients losing needed home care services, because of the increases in their Social Security which puts them over income.

'Guy with the Big Red T' answers critics

by Rick Cooke

The conversation starts very innocently. "So you're from Tewksbury?" "No, I answer as I begin to sense what's coming, being quite experienced at the technique of asking a question that leads into another question.

"Well, there's too much Tewksbury sports in your sports section." You must know by now that I am at a Wilmington High School baseball game. I know this because I purposely left my shirt "With the Big Red T" emblazoned on the front at home.

I tried to find something in Wilmington Blue, but unfortunately Wilmington Blue now comes in two shades, thanks to the school's ex-athletic director, who thought it was time to alter what was fashionable throughout WHS sports history.

I manage to squeeze in a brief rebuttal to the charge that Wilmington sports fans have taken as their battle cry. Ah-ha! - Rick Cooke lived in Tewksbury - and worse yet, he went to Tewksbury High School! And - have mercy on his soul (which must be a nice shade of red mixed with blue), he played sports at Tewksbury High School! I am the enemy. The rivalry has gotten that fierce.

"If you'll take a close look at the section you'll find that the balance of coverage is generally pretty good," I answer. Another long time Wilmington sports follower sadly shakes his head. "If you'll come down to the paper some day I'll go through each section story by story, photo by photo..."

"No, I've been getting the paper for 25 years and ever since you became sports editor..." You mean ever since you found out I once lived in Tewksbury. Ever since it became common knowledge that I played sports at Tewksbury High School.

Why do we have to see Tewksbury sports? That's a question that I got earlier this winter, and the answer is simply that approximately two years ago it was decided by myself and the very capable people whom I work with that I was accumulating enough sports copy to start a pullout sports section, combining both Tewksbury and Wilmington sports.

It was a viable change, considering the fact that some advertisers liked the idea of placing their ads in a pullout section, that design and layout of such a section appealed to us here, and that I thought I could pull it off, keeping a proper balance in mind.

Well, I have kept a decent balance and I have the figures and the sections to back it up. I have become convinced that many Wilmington sports fans just don't want to see Tewksbury sports. You see, before I went to the pullout section (you'll find very few weekly sports sections with this format and depth of coverage), I was putting together two separate pages of sports for each town. One town never saw the other's section. Apparently, Wilmington diehards could care less if they ever saw a Tewksbury score in print.

I don't want to chew up what precious space I have with facts and figures, but here are a couple of interesting observations that I made while going through some past issues.

In the April 16 section the first page was entirely devoted to Wilmington sports - five stories and two photos. In that particular four page section seven of the eight photos were of Wilmington sports teams.

In the March 26 issue the entire front page and most of the back was devoted to a feature story on Wilmington's outstanding light heavyweight fighter Jim McNally. I purposely put Tewksbury sports on a back burner that week to concentrate on the McNally piece.

I will often go with what I consider is the big sports story of that particular week - be it in Wilmington or Tewksbury. Of course my judgement is always open to second guessing by any respectable armchair quarterback - and I realize that's the nature of this business.

Everyone has his favorite team or player - and it's only natural for them to get a bit peeved when it's decided by someone to relegate their pride and joy to two paragraphs on the inside of the section.

But, judgement calls are what I get paid for. That, along with writing, editing, proofreading, pasteup, photography and hearing the complaints from two towns that take pride in their many fine teams.

Hey, I'll admit that I get steamed when I hear that question So you're from Tewksbury? Now I know how Don Zimmer, or for that matter, any other coach feels. He's always open to the second guessers. It is, of course their right to pick the section apart after they've plunked down their 20 cents or paid the yearly subscription price.

But, on the other hand, they aren't responsible for wading through all the teams, all the copy, all the photos - good and bad - from both towns.

You see, I tend to go for the quality of coverage rather than the quantity. If I have a good photo - be it from Tewksbury or Wilmington - I'll use it rather than go with a mediocre picture just because it's from one town or the other.

And, if I find that the balance of stories is swinging from one town or the other, I'll try to even that off with more photos covering the particular town that has come up short on copy.

On the subject of my residency past or present - it is a pretty weak argument. Yes, I lived in Tewksbury for six of my 25 years on this earth. I have not lived there for six years. I live in Billerica. Does that mean I should be wearing green and rooting for the Indians? Come on.

I have lived in Connecticut, Nova Scotia, and Boston, and I don't cheer any teams from any of those towns. I don't root for Tewksbury. I cover Tewksbury teams. And, of course I'll never be able to convince anyone from Wilmington of my objectivity because - "Rick Cooke played for Tewksbury and wears that Big Red T on his chest." - a line that I've borrowed from Wilmington Athletic Director Jim Gillis - whom I'm glad always says it with a smile on his face.

Unfortunately, too many others aren't smiling when they say it, and they are the people who take the whole Tewksbury-Wilmington rivalry much too seriously.

And it's too bad that this attitude is sometimes transmitted to the players on the respective teams, who harbor bitter feelings toward each other too often when good hard competition should be gaining the upper hand in the minds of the players on both sides.

Anyone who saw the first game between the Tewksbury and Wilmington High School baseball teams will know where I'm coming from.

When I offer to review the sections with someone, I wish they wouldn't decline by saying "I've been getting the paper for 25 years." This isn't the same Town Crier that The Captain started many years ago.

I hope that I've changed this sports section for the better. And, I hope that if you have a criticism that we can sit down and objectively discuss it. I have past issues here, and I'll go through them with you while you air any complaint.

Now let's see, where did I put my monogramed red t-shirt with the matching red and blue boxer shorts?

Marsh, Redmen clinch tourney berth, 3-0

by Rick Cooke

"He told me this morning, Dad, my arm feels really terrific today." The statement was profetic, for Tewksbury High School senior left-hander Steve Marsh went out and pitched perhaps the biggest and best game of his young baseball life in Wilmington Friday afternoon, firing a two-hitter at the Wildcats in a 3-0 win that gave the Tewksbury High School baseball team a berth in the Eastern Mass Tournament.

The win, coupled with Sunday night's 9-0 loss at Lowell, gives coach John Bresnahan's Redmen a 12-7 overall record, 12-6 in the Merrimack Valley Conference. The tourney parings will be announced some time later this week, with games scheduled to start the first of next week.

Walter Marsh could see in that very first inning that his son Steve (6-2, 1.87) was headed for another overpowering performance in a season that has been filled with them.

Marsh, who is headed for the University of Lowell, no-hit Wilmington until co-captain Gary Hastings' one-out single smash past third baseman Fred Mainey in the sixth inning. The only other Wildcat hit was senior catcher Dave Woods' lead-off single in the bottom of the seventh.

Don O'Brien (.442), Bob Dascoli, Ron Wallace, Andy DeVita and Mainey would provide all the offense that Marsh would need on this day, as the Redmen scored single runs in the first, third and sixth innings.

The Redmen struck for their first run quickly in the first inning when Wallace lined a triple and O'Brien, who was to make a brilliant seventh inning diving stop in the hole, dumped a single into rightfield.

Dascoli gave Tewksbury a 2-0 lead in the third when he mashed a long home run to right, and the other insurance score came in the sixth when DeVita walked, stole second and beat a throw to the plate on Mainey's RBI single.

Marsh had to pitch a super game because the Wildcats, with an outside shot at qualifying for the tournament themselves, sent their ace - junior righty Glen Sargent to the mound, and Glen (5-3, 1.32) turned in another stellar effort for coach Dick Scanlon, going the seven inning distance, fanning four and walking three in his six-hitter.

Tewksbury now joins Lawrence, Methuen and Chelmsford in the tournament, with Wilmington just missing with a 10-8 conference mark, 11-8 overall.

It will be the first time a Tewksbury High School baseball team has qualified for an Eastern Mass Tourney since 1973 when pitchers Gary Jenkins and Tom Morin helped coach John Perreault's club to a post season berth.

"I feel great," said a rather relieved second year coach Bresnahan after the game, the second hard-fought win for Tewksbury over the Wildcats this season.

"I'm just going to savor this one for a while," offered Bresnahan. "It's been a long two years, but it has been worth it. This team has come on like gangbusters since that first week in the season. It's been sweet."

The Redmen survived a shaky start and some minor internal problems to right themselves behind the pitching and hitting of Marsh and fellow senior lefty Wallace - along with the consistent bats of O'Brien and Dascoli and more than adequate defense over the course of the season.

When Tewksbury needed the big win it seemed that Marsh was always there, even pitching brilliantly in the toughest loss of the season, a 5-4, 14 inning setback at Methuen when he fanned 17 Rangers.

"It's been a senior team and they've played like a senior team. The attitude has improved 200 percent since the start of the season," said Bresnahan.

"Hey, fellas don't leave just yet," Bresnahan told his troops, who gathered around him and TMHS Athletic Director Mickey Sullivan after the game. "Hey fellas, we did it, we really did it," said the coach, who could easily be mistaken for one of the players.

Turning to head for the parking lot, Bresnahan spotted one of the many Redmen followers who saw Tewksbury tournament hopes in football (twice) and soccer crushed by Wilmington High School teams, and said, "Hey, we did it, we really did it."

Divine guidance

Ryan returns

WHS varsity tennis player Kathy Ryan returns this save in a recent match. Kathy and her mates defeated Tewksbury last week.

Tough week for frosh

The Wilmington freshman baseball team was shutout in the win column last week, as Andover East defeated the locals 8-3 and Billerica used some timely hitting in rolling to a 6-3 victory.

Eddie Olshaw and Jon Nolan provided the run production for Wilmington with two hits each and Tom O'Connor made a fine running catch in right field.

The runs came in bunches as Lawrence defeated Wilmington 13-10. David Strand pitched a strong game in relief, despite the score. Eddie Olson had four hits, including a 320 foot double. Ray Taylor, Kevin Smith and Eddie Olshaw hit well, as Wilmington fought back from a 6-0 deficit.

MVC boys tennis Wildcats tourney bid falls short

Despite of winning eight out of their last nine matches, coach Dick Malcolm's WHS varsity tennis squad just missed (one percentage point) in their bid for a first Eastern Mass Tourney berth.

The Cats needed to win 12 out of 16 matches, or finish first in the MVC in order to qualify. They ended up one short both ways, finishing with 11 wins and in a second place tie with Austin Prep, behind co-champs Billerica and Chelmsford.

In final week action, the Wildcats lost just 12 games out of a possible 72 at the singles positions over two matches, and swept over Andover and Tewksbury by scores of 4-1 and 5-0.

In the Andover match
First Singles - Bob Sweeney over Barry Lobell (6-2) (6-2); second singles- Bob Williams over Peter Coplan (6-0) (6-1); third singles- Bob Magliozzi over Brian Howell (6-0) (6-2).

First doubles- Vin Iocco and Dave Dunbar over Chris Dyer and Mitch Smith (7-6) (4-6), (7-5); second doubles- Scott MacDonald and Bob Perry lost to Joe Kannan and David Factor (5-7), (6-4), (6-1).

In the Tewksbury match
First singles - Bob Sweeney over Scott Cameron (6-1) (6-4); second singles- Bob Williams over Dan O'Connell (6-0) (6-1); third singles- Bob Magliozzi over Kevin Moylan (6-0) (6-0).

First doubles- Scott MacDonald and Dave Dunbar over Rich Danner and Mike Sarsfield (6-0) (6-1); second doubles- Carroll Gillespie and Larry Henry over Rich Catanzaro and Ha Sok Chun (7-6) (6-1).

Tennis Club opens season

The Wilmington Tennis Club kicked off its 1980 outdoor season with a Spring Mixer held at the Avco courts May 3 and 4. After a weekend of great tennis and beautiful weather, the results of the final matches held Sunday afternoon were Dave Webster and Judy Conant defeating Arnie Aprile and Nancy Berger 6-0, 6-3 in Division A, and Ron Marquez and Linda Gedney topping Wendell Holmes and Irene Hoffman 6-2, 6-1 in Division B play.

Ladder sign-ups can still be made for this year by calling the following coordinators: Men's singles - Carroll Gillespie 658-2800; Men's Doubles - Dave Webster 658-2815; Mixed Doubles - Diana Holmes 658-8358; Womens' Singles - Gerri Gerrior 658-8579; Womens' Doubles - Nancy Newhouse 658-6526; and Juniors-Irene Hoffman 658-7411.

Hinxman, O'Donnell hook up

Kris Hinxman and Paul O'Donnell locked up in one of the best pitching duels of the season, with both men firing six-hitters in Wilmington Men's Recreation Softball League action Wednesday night at Town Park.

Unfortunately, both mound gems came with the two pitching against one another in the same game, with Hinxman's Doyle's Hardware team edging O'Donnell and Nash Realty, 4-3. Doyle's and Hinxman chalked up the hard-fought win when they scored two runs in the bottom of the seventh inning, the game winner coming across on Paul Gracia's sacrifice fly.

In other action Wednesday night the Sons of Italy got a super pitching performance from Bob Danehy in a 4-1 win over D&D Gulf and losing hurler Rick Nickerson. Tony Gravallesse spanked three hits for the winners, while Peter Swan paced the D&D attack with a pair of hits.

A summary of other action last week:

Nash Realty 13-Mac's 4
Nash plated seven runs in the top of the fourth inning to coast to this win for pitcher Paul O'Donnell. Tony Butler fired the rally with a bases loaded single off losing chucker Tom Woods. Joe Quinn led Mac's with three hits.

Ray Noel was a one man wrecking crew for the winners with a single, a double and a grand slam homer, good for six RBI's. Ken Morse ripped a single and a triple for the Tire men. Dave Winston was the winning pitcher, besting Charlie Doucette.

In next week's Crier

Next week's Town Crier sports section will feature the Sports Notebook, with details on the Friends of Lowell Road Race and a mini-preview of the Tewksbury at Wilmington High School football teams.

Wildcat JV's club Tewksbury, 8-0

In a hitting performance not seen among the junior varsity baseball ranks for years, Wilmington sophomore Rob Santos cracked three long home runs in Wilmington's 8-0 whitewashing of rival Tewksbury in the last game of the season. The win raised coach Bill Simmons' JV's final record to 13-4.

A summary of last week's action:

Chelmsford 2-Wilmington 1
Some careless base running cost the Wildcats and hardluck pitcher Rob Santos (3-3) the ballgame.

"Murderer's Row" was again the J.V. offense as Craig Richards (three hits), Rob Santos (double) and Paul Bova (two hits) provided all the hitting.

Santos allowed only three hits and faced just 24 batters in the seven innings he pitched.

Dracut 5-Wilmington 4
Two unearned runs in the seventh inning allowed the Middies to nip the Wildcats on a rain soaked field.

Rob Santos, Walter Surrence and Ken Runge each had a pair of hits to lead the Wilmington offense. Paul Bova and Byron Kincaid each chipped in with singles in the losing cause.

Wilmington 8-Tewksbury 0
The eruption of Mount Santos (three homers) helped support a brilliant pitching performance by Andy Leverone (8-1).

Santos connected for his home runs in the first, third and sixth innings. Chris Peabody's bases loaded double was also a big blow in the game. Paul Bova, Byron Kincaid and Jeff Lux also had hits in the rout.

Leverone (brother of senior Little League President Frank Leverone) scattered three singles in his shutout performance. He struck out eight Redmen, and at one time during the game, struck out five in a row.

One of the major reasons for the J.V. success (13-4) this year was the hitting of sophomores Craig Richards, Rob Santos and Paul Bova as the trio compiled some awesome statistics.

The three super sophs combined for a collective batting average of .365, a slugging percentage of .635, and reached Merrimack Valley pitching for 16 doubles, nine triples and five home runs among their 54 hits, as well as being walked 24 times and knocking in 43 runs in the 17 game season.

The trio hopes to continue its success the next two years at the varsity level.

Beach opens June 21

Wilmington's town beach at Silver Lake will not open to the public until Saturday, June 21. Presently, there is danger from winter vandalism and broken glass embedded in the sand.

One-Pitch Tourney

Commissioner Cushing does the job, 10-9

It's not often that a league commissioner can chalk up a pitching victory in a championship game, but leave it to Wilmington's venerable Jack Cushing, who was the winning pitcher in Sunday's 10-9 Aslanis Fisheries win over Dunkirk Express in the championship game of the 250th Anniversary Celebration One-Pitch Softball Tournament at Town Park.

The Fish men scored four runs in the bottom of the eighth and three in the ninth to stage a come-from-behind win, as Bob Butters belted out three hits and drove in the winning run.

Dennis DeMaggio, John McCarthy and Bob Hogg each had three hits in support of Cushing, who bested Jim Crowley in what hardly was a pitchers duel.

Joe Simmons paced the Dunkirk attack with three hits, while Jim Peterson and Ken Crowley each slapped two.

In semifinal One-Pitch action, Aslanis ripped the Compugraphic Trojans 11-5 and Dunkirk Express topped North Wilmington Shell 8-3. Cushing was also the winning pitcher in semifinal action, this time relying on the big bats of Doug Fish (two triples) and Dennis DeMaggio (double, triple). Losing pitcher Arnie Meyer led the Compugraphic attack with two hits.

Dunkirk used a balanced attack to push past North Wilmington Shell, as Jim Peterson, Joe Simmons, Don Roberts and winning pitcher Jim Crowley each had two hits. Eddie Harrison ripped a double in support of losing hurler Gary Warford.

A summary of opening round action played Friday night:

firstbase against Wilmington.

The Wildcats staged their biggest batting explosion of the season in a 16-4 rout of Dracut last week. Pitchers John Ferguson (4-4) and Earl Paulsen were the beneficiary's of the explosion.

The WHS attack reads like this: Dave Woods (three run triple, four RBI's), John Scozzaro (two run double, three hits), Chris Nolan (walk, RBI), Bob DiGirolamo (double, two RBI's), Joe Burbine (triple, run scored), Steve Scanlon (single, RBI), Ted Moran (sacrifice fly, RBI) and Scott Richards (double, RBI).

Scanlon and Bresnahan got the seniors together before Friday's game to remind them all that sportsmanship was the byword of this season-ending action, thus preventing a recurrence of the pushing and shoving that went on during the post game handshake after the first game played in Tewksbury.
